Why Alicante?

- Located on the east coast of Spain, Alicante is the capital of the Costa Blanca, where we find popular destinations such as Denia, Benidorm, Torrevieja and Elche.
- It is the second largest city in the Valencia Region.
- It is a medium-size city, with around 315.000 inhabitants, and it overlooks the Mediterranean Sea.

Why Alicante?

- Alicante enjoys warm winters and hot summers, with an annual average temperature of 18°C and over 3.000 hours of sun a year.
- The city offers tourist-related products involved with cultural, shopping, golf, nautical, gastronomic and leisure sectors, as well as business, congresses and incentives.

Why Costa Blanca?

- The Costa Blanca is one of the Mediterranean's top tourist destinations
It has 219-kilometre coastline
- Alicante is the second most mountainous province in Spain and it is here that we see the grandeur of the Mediterranean landscape. Its unforgettable beaches and coves, beautiful coastal mountain ranges, and infallible sun make the Costa Blanca a paradise all year round
- The spring-like and summer weather are normal for most of the year.
